This booklet was prepared by The Anaconda Company as a biographical reference of those chosen to serve in Montana's 44th Legislature. We congratulate all of you who have been elected as lawmakers for our state in this important and critical period. May the session be one of sound and realistic accomplishments for the progress and benefit of Montana.

GOV. THOMAS L. JUDGE

Thomas L. Judge, who previously served Montana in both houses of the Legislature and for one four-year term as Lieutenant Governor, was inaugurated as Governor Jan. 1, 1973. He is a Helena native, born Oct. 12, 1934, and at 40 is the state's youngest chief executive. He is a graduate of Notre Dame University and for twelve years operated an advertising agency in Helena. He represented Lewis and Clark County in the House in 1961-63-65 and in the Senate in 1967. He was Lieutenant Governor for four years, presiding over the Senate sessions of 1969 and 1971. He served on the Legislative Council in 1965-67. Was voted the Outstanding Young Man of Montana by the Jaycees in 1967. He was chairman of the National Lieutenant Governor's Conference and just completed a term as chairman of the Federation of Rocky Mountain States. Anaconda in Montana

The Anaconda Company is a Montana corporation that has been doing business in this state for almost 90 years.

It is the state's largest single industrial employer, providing jobs in 1973 for 6,529 Montanans, who received, wages, salaries and benefits totaling more than $112 million. And Anaconda operations are responsible for thousands of additional jobs in derivative businesses and industries.

It is the largest taxpayer in three counties: Silver Bow, Deer Lodge and Flathead, and in 1973, its copper operations alone contributed almost $12 million in Montana taxes.

Anaconda spends in excess of half a million dollars every day to operate its Montana mines and plants and that is a vital contribution to the strength and stability of the state's economy. Most of the benefits go directly to our employees and from there to the store, service station, grocer, office or wherever they do business. A large portion of these expenditures go to our schools and government, the transportation and utility industries and the hundreds of suppliers from whom we purchase goods and services.

As one of the largest taxpayers, employers and consumers in Montana, The Anaconda Company makes a vital contribution to the economy of this state. We recognize the fact that thousands of people depend on the continued operation of our mines and plants and it is our objective to continue to provide income and opportunities in this state, now and in the future.

Our responsibilities in Montana go beyond economic considerations. As a developer of natural resources, Anaconda is a custodian of the land and has the obligation to make every reasonable effort to minimize the impact its mines and plants have on the environment.

In the past few years, The Anaconda Company has completed or planned environmental quality programs at its domestic operations requiring expenditures in excess of $108 million. The largest portion of these expenditures has been made here in Montana to work toward compliance with the state's high standards of environmental protection.

In 1971, Anaconda initiated a two-phase air quality program at the Anaconda Reduction Department with the stated objective of meeting all federal ambient air and process weight standards. At the end of 1974, a substantial portion of this program had been completed including the installation of a baghouse that will retain more than 99 per cent of the particulate emissions, a sulphuric acid plant, portions of a new flue system, water cooled converter hoods and other treatment and control facilities. Concurrent with the completion of these projects, construction was begun on an electric furnace and fluid-bed roaster and plans were being made for the expansion of the sulphuric acid plant. When the air quality program is completed, Anaconda will have spent $67 million to comply with the 75 per cent sulphur retention level agreed to this July with the State Board of Health.

The new Arbiter Plant, the first commercial application of a hydrometallurgical process in the copper industry, was also completed in 1974. This plant utilizes chemical and electrolytic processes to produce cathode copper and operates without the intense heat and pollution problems common to pyrometallurgical smelters.

Anaconda has also installed the industry's most sophisticated environmental monitoring system in the Deer Lodge Valley. A series of remote stations are connected to a central computer and conditions relating to air and water quality are constantly monitored to determine the effect of company operations on the surrounding area.

In 1973, The Anaconda Company received a Gold Medal Award from the Sports Foundation, Inc. for outstanding achievement in the fight against water pollution. The water pollution control system for the Company's Butte and Anaconda operations has a treatment efficiency of 99 per cent, recycles millions of gallons of water daily and is attaining the objective of preventing contaminated water from entering the upper reaches of the Clark Fork River.

The Anaconda Company supports rational policies that control pollution and protect the environment without unnecessarily restricting industry and canceling the economic benefits to which the people of this state are entitled.
